UPDATE Friday 2:25 p.m. -- The Maine Warden Service tells NEWS CENTER that Vadas has been found alive. He is being evaluated by medical personnel and then will be transported to the hospital.

ALTON, Maine (NEWS CENTER) -- Game Wardens confirmed Thursday night that they are searching for a missing hunter in Alton.

Robert Vadas, 79, of Orono was reported missing around 2 P.M. Thursday. Lt. Dan Scott of the Maine Warden Service said Vadas had gone hunting in Alton and failed to return to meet his friend.

Game Wardens used an aircraft, dozens of K-9 teams and other resources to try and locate him Thursday night and into Friday morning.
